When Jesus had yielded up his spirit, the veil of the Temple was rent in twain from top to bottom, the earth quaked, rocks were riven, graves opened, and many of the dead rose out of them and appeared to their families and friends. n The centurion and all those who were with him watching near the cross, overwhelmed with fear at the awful events which attended the death of Jesus, exclaimed: Truly this was the Son of God! The people, too, who had been present at the crucifixion, smote their breasts, and returned home filled with consternation. That the bodies might not remain upon the cross on the Sabbath-day, which would have been contrary to the law of Moses, the soldiers, with the governors permission, broke the legs of the two malefactors, that they might die and be taken away. But when they came to Jesus and 162 THE SEPULCHRE OF JESUS. aw that he was already dead, they broke not his legs. A soldier, however, with a spear pierced his side, and from the wound flowed blood and water--a sure sign of real death. In the evening, Joseph of Arimathea, a man of wealth and consequence, and a secret disciple of Jesus, went to Pilate and begged the body of Jesus. Pilate wondered that he was dead already. He sent to the centurion appointed to watch, who confirmed...
