British and Foreign State Papers, vol. cii, p. 591. rights and duties of neutral Powers in Naval War (No. 13) is liberally drawn upon for guidance. It is to be remembered that this Hague Convention was not of itself binding on the belligerents, as not all of them were parties to it. 173. These Rules and Regulations are said in the Proclamation to be issued by the President in virtue of the sovereignty which the United States exercises in the land and waters of the Canal Zone. Such sovereignty is of course unlimited. Nevertheless, in drawing up these regulations, the President had to take care that they should not in any way be contrary to the obligations to Great Britain entered into by the United States...
