Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from British and Foreign Medical Review, 1843, Vol. 15: Or Quarterly Journal of Practical Medicine and Surgery We concur with Major Tulloch as to the importance of the testimony derived from the Naval Reports, in corroboration of his own conclusions regarding the causes of disease. But we would remark, moreover, that no inconsiderable portion of the value of each succeeding Military Report depends on the opportunity of comparison on this head between it and its predecessors; for from no quarter can Major Tulloch s deductions derive more important or authentic confirmation than from his own further researches. At the very commencement of his Report we find a topographical and statistical view of Ceylon, having an important bearing on this point; and we shall extract from it those portions which have the most direct reference to a subject as interesting to us as to the gallant author. The Island of Ceylon lies on the western side of the Bay of Bengal, between 5 54 and 9 50 north latitude, and 79 50 and 82 10 east longitude;...
