AMRM training should be included as a regular part of recurrent training. Recurrent AMRM training should include refresher practice and feedback exercises. Advanced AMRM components may be introduced as the air medical team grows and develops comprehensive use of AMRM principles. Recurrent training allows participants to practice newly improved skills in communication and interpersonal relationships and to receive feedback on their effectiveness. Feedback has its greatest impact when it comes by way of self-critique and peer review. Feedback in a debriefing environment should focus on the action not the individual. Guidance from a facilitator with special training in assessment and debriefing techniques completes an effective practice feedback process. d. Continuing Reinforcement. AMRM concepts should be carried into every other type of training including technical and interdepartmental training so that those concepts are reinforced continuously. Dissimilar groups should all be brought together for joint AMRM training. The objective is to improve the effectiveness and safety of the entire operations team (cross-pollination) as a working system. This is accomplished through: (1) Technical Training (e. g. , initial and recurrent training) which includes: (a) Simulation. Simulation training provides all team members a better opportunity to understand other team members responsibilities and job function. Simulations that could be used for training could include a mock air medical flight to emergency room staff and dispatchers or providing training on the helicopter emergency systems and procedures to the medical flight crewmembers. This could be something as simple as how to turn off...
