quot;Thus we have decided to give the first lifetime ban to none other than GGFan, whose crimes against the internet should not and will never be forgotten or forgiven.quot; I created my first account on GameFAQs 15 years ago, quot;thegreatestgamefan.quot; Back then I was merely the greatest fan of games. What I didn t know was how being a fan of one game in particular would give me the opportunity to master it while becoming its most hated character. Listen to my story, in which I talk about the early days of competitive Pokemon, my involvement in both GameFAQs rise and downfall as a competitive community, and how I managed to become so despised that I even received legitimate death threats from indignant pre-teens (or possibly older, I m not sure) who thought I was the Grimer of the Earth. Competitive Pokemon grew to new heights from 2002-2003. There were more online tournaments than ever before and a playerbase that had a clear sense of who the best were. I was among them, though nobody else wanted to admit it. Having been exposed to elitism early on in my tenure, I was able to create and perfect a character that would take the arrogance of my peers five steps further. Thus, "GGFan" was born, thanks in large part to my abilities as a player. We were younger back then. We were also crazier, stupider, and more violent than anyone could have imagined. To say that the competitive Pokemon scene was unstable would be a grave understatementno, it was an asylum run by the inmates. And I was the inmate that the other inmates wanted to...
